

Three Rivers Tibetan Cultural Center

Kusali Chöd Practice and the Thousand-Armed and Thousand-Eyed Avalokiteshvara Sadhana with Ven. Khenpo Choephel

Saturday and Sunday, August 18-19, 2018

Saturday, August 18, 2018

10am – 12pm Explanation of the Chöd practice

12pm – 1:30pm Lunch break

1:30pm – 4:30pm Kusali Chöd practice

Kusali Chöd (ཀུས་ལཱི་ཅོད་) which literally means “cutting through“. It is an internal mental practice to offer one’s body as nectar to the beings in the six realms in order to cut through one’s self-grasping and self-cherishing. This is an important practice to help practitioners cut through ego and all forms of attachment, the root of our suffering.

Sunday, August 19, 2018

10am – 12pm Avalokiteshvara Teaching

12pm – 1:30pm Lunch break

1:30pm – 4:30pm Avalokiteshvara Sadhana Practice

The essence of this Thousand Armed and Thousand Eyed Chenrezig practice is to generate the awakening mind, bodhicitta, in order to liberate all sentient beings from all forms of suffering. The practice includes invocation, offering, visualization, recitation of mantra, meditation on compassion, and some ritual practices such as tormas and tsok offering.

ALL ARE WELCOME

The Venerable Khenpo Choephel, spiritual director and resident teacher of TRTCC

TRTCC is located at 7313 Florence Avenue,
Pittsburgh PA 15218

<https://www.threeriverstibetanc.org/>